Others Declared Davis Tried to Hire Some One to Kill Grubb.

SALISBURY, N. C., May 15 .- The detense in the Clay-Grubb murder trial opened when Rowan Superior Court convened this morning, the State having taken a rest. The direct examination is conducted by C. B. Watson, of Winston-Salem, and the cross-examination is being done by L. H. Clement, of

The witnesses examined for the defense to-day were nearly all from Davidson county and included F. N. Young, Clerence Thompson, W. A. Hendricks, Mrs. Katle Reid, S. W. Boring, W. T. Broadaway, Lindsay Yarbrough, J. S. Free, Sheriff Dorsott, of Davidson county, and others others.

The most sensational scene of the trial was when Sheriff Dorsett testified that Ohe Davis, who was slain by Grubb, told him the day prior to the homicide that he would go to Piney Church, the scene of the tragedy, Sunday and kill Grubb, the day he himself was killed.

The officer tried to dissuade Davis, but falled. Soveral witnesses testified to-day that Davis had repeatedly tried to hire some one to kill Grubb, offering a reward, and that he himself threatened to commit the deed.

Lindsay Yarbrough testified that he came to church the day he was killed with a shotgun in his buggy. The defendant Grubb goes upon the stand in his own behalf to-morrow.

It is expected that the hearing of evidence for the defense will consume one or two more days.

Sham Empress Swindled Boston Italians With Wild Promises.

HELD ROYAL COURT AT HOME

Received Visitors Wearing Crown and Robes-Claimed Royal Salute.

(Special to The Times-Dispatch) BOSTON, MASS., May 15.—The flight from Boston of a woman who has been operating in Boston for the last 8 years has revealed, so the police say, one of the most astounding swindles ever perpetrat-

the present Emperor Francis Joset, of Austria, this woman persuaded some Boston Italians that if they raised the funds she could overthrow the present Austrian Emperor and would herself be crowned Empress. By this interesting representation the woman, with an accomplice, who represented himself as the Crown Prince Rudolph, has got away with about $40,000 advanced for her scheme.

The woman, who lived in the south end in a prominent thoroughfare, was also promoter of a scheme which was a process for making negroes white. She exhibited a spotted negro man, who she said was being bleached by her process.

The woman made use of the rumors which have prevailed in regard to Crown Prince Rudolph, who is supposed to have killed himself in 1889, and who is believed by some persons to be alive The accomplice, who represented himself to he the Crown Prince, is said to be named Moriarity. "Carlotat" impressed her alleged dupes by maintaining in her home a royal court and wearing royal robes.

When the Italians who were asked to contribute the funds for the international plot called upon her they found her seated upon a throne wearing a crown and surrounded by "courtiers."

One of the most interesting features of her operations to impress those who were advancing the funds, was on the occasion of the visit of an Austrian warship to Boston several months ago. She made up a party and went out to the warship at night.

She carefully timed her visit so that her approach to the vessel would coincide with the firing of the salute as courtesy to the Charleston navy yard. She told her visitors that she would be recognized by those on the Austrian warship. As her boat neared the vessel the guns boomed and the Italian money landers were convinced.

Post, chairman of the rallway appliance exhibit of the International Railway Congress, pointedly snubbed the secretary to the President because Mr. Loeb declined to permit Mr. Post and his associates to see Mr. Roosevelt when they called at the White House to urge the President to visit the exhibit Friday afternoon. The display was held over a day for the return of Mr. Roosevelt, but Mr. Loeb took the position that the President was too busy.

Mr. Loeb took the position that the President was too busy.

Mr. Loeb called up Mr. Post on the clephone Saturday morning. Mr. Post sent back word by the messenger: "Say to Mr. Loeb that I am at breakfast. If he wishes to call me up in half an hour I will talk with him."

"Does Mr. Post understand that Mr. Loeb, at the White House, wishes to speak with him?" said the man at the other end of the line, in astonishment.

"I am sure he does," was the reply.

"And he didn't say he would call Mr. Loeb up?"

"I have repeated the message exactly as it was given me," was the reply.

Half an hour later the telephone bell rang again, and Mr. Post answered it, inding Mr. Loeb at'the other end.

"The President" said the secretary, "The President" said the secretary, "The President" said the secretary, "regrets very much that he was unable to view the exhibition yesterday, and wishes to know whether it cannot be arranged for him to view it to-day."

Mr. Post explained that the exhibition had been dismantied and that it was now too late.

"If we could have seen the President" had been dismantled and that it was now too late.

"If we could have seen the President himself, the result of our call at his office would have been different," said Mr. Post later, but that pleasure and lonor were denied us through an error in judgment of his secretary, who did not seem to realize what the purport of our mission was. To our President we doff our hats; for we know that under no circumstances would be be ungractous."

of Virginia's best known traveling men; Mrs. Beckwith and R. W. Prichard boarded the train, together with Mr. and Mrs. Bransford B. Adams, Dan W. Sale, of Lynchburg, and C. E. Holland and W. C. Ollver and Andrew Jamieson, of Danville, and Misses Mary Osterman and Carrie Taylor, of Washington.

All of to-day delegates were arriving from different parts of the country and to-night the opening exercises were held in the historic Savannah theatre, erected nearly a century ago. A band from Fort Scribner and the Order of Woodmen of the World furnished the delightful music, and Hon, Herman Myers, Mayor of Savannah, in fitting terms extended the freedom of the city to the pilgrims from far and near. Response to the speech of the Mayor was made by Horacs C. Starr, national president of the Travelers' Protective Association. Appropriate addresses followed from Hon. W. S. Brantley, member of Congress from the Eleventh Congressional District of Georgia; J. Rice Smith, former president of the Georgia Division; E. W. Donham, former national president, and key. Homer I. Wilson, national chaplain.

Elect "Buck" Johnson. To-morrow's proceedings will begin with a parade to the armory of the Savannah Guards, where the meetings will be held. In the afternoon, after business matters are disposed of, there will be a trolley trip to Isle of Hope, a reception at the Savannah Yacht Club, and a fish supper, followed by dancing and beating at the Savannah Yacht Club, and a fish supper, followed by dancing and boating at the Casino, near the city. Wednesday an address will be delivered by Colonel John S. Harwood, the well known Virginian. With an eye single to the advancement of Richmond, Secretary Harwood and the Virginia division came loaded down with devices to spread abroad the farms of the capital city of the Old Dominion, nor did they forget the many other thriving cities within the confines of the mother of States and statesmen. Most striking of these is the attractive button; which will tell the people of every State of Richmond's famous hotel, about to rise, Phoenix-like, from her selves. It is an will tell the people of every State of Richmond's famous hotel, about to rise, Phoenix-like, from her ashes. It is an attractive button, blue-rimmed, with a picture of the restored Jefferson in the center. It bears this legend: "The Jefferson, Richmond, Va., built 1892, restored 1996." Scarce a man or woman in Savannah but is now adorned with one of these buttons, and the hotel's fame will spread from occan to occan.

Unless all signs fall, W. R. Johnson, of Tennessec, formerly of Lynchburg, widely known as "Buck" Johnson, will be elected national president. The Tennessee delegation has opened headquarters at the DeSoto Hotel, and gone to work in earnest for him. Nearly every one is wearing a button bearing a facsimile of his handsome fentures.

Buffalo, N. Y., seems to have the call for the next meeting. Many are wearing buttons as big as breakfast plates, whereon is a Ruffalo rampant and the words: "I am next." Richmond is in line for the legent of the harders the Vigginia.

This is but one fight before the Virginia division, and it bids fair to be fought to a successful finish. Some time ago a resolution was adopted increasing the to a successful finish. Some time ago a resolution was adopted increasing the annual dues from 10 to 11, the extra dollar going to provide an emergency fund. This fund has reached the sum of $100,000$. Last year a resolution, oftered by Mr. Joseph Wallerstein, of Richmond, was adopted, dividing this extra dollar between the State division and the various posts. There are now two resolutions pending. One is designed to do away with this extra amount and the other to devote it entirely to the reserve fund. An effort will be made to defeat both, and it will likely succeed.
